Nikola Tesla was a man deeply obsessed with the numbers 3, 6 and 9. Unlike many, Tesla understood a fundamental fact, unknown to others, which is the universal language of mathematics; which in the end is a science discovered by man, not invented by him. Tesla went far beyond math. He envisioned numerical patterns that exist in the universe, like star formation, the development of embryonic cells, and many others mind-boggling details that some call "God's Plan" or "the Blueprint of ..."

The great inventor indeed had two secret laboratories. In 1899, Nikola Tesla organized a laboratory in the U.S. state of Colorado to study the secrets of high-frequency electricity. It is a recognized fact that as a result of one of his experiments, the inventor was able to create a 30-meter electric arch between two metal rods. The generator couldn't handle such power and the entire town of Colorado Springs was plunged into darkness.
